My Dream Career

My dream career is to be an inventor. I've always wanted to have this job. I just seem to learn and know how everything works. I even took apart an old cell phone once! Whether it's computers or cars, I'm always very curious. Take LEGOs, for example. I have so many sets that our house is running out of space! Other than that, I have tubs and tubs full of spare pieces. That's my favorite part. I love to take things apart and see how they work, and I also love making my own creations. I just admire LEGOs and Ole Kirk, the person who invented them. My role model is Mark Rober. He makes such cool videos and knows so much about physics and science that he just is bursting with knowledge that he shares with the world. I watched so many videos that it is hard to find any other ones! One day, I want to be like Mark Rober, but better. When I grow up, I want to go to CALTech, or CIT. Then, I want to work at NASA and eventually make a company of my own! I want to create something that will benefit the world and put my name down in history.
